11 SAFETY

In the event of an electrical hazard, the mains adapter acts as 230V power isolating device. It should therefore, as a precaution, be installed close to the appliance and be easily accessible. To disconnect the device from the primary power source, the mains adapter must be removed from the 230V AC/50 Hz socket.

If the mains adapter fails, it must be replaced by an identical model.

If not connected to the mains power or if there is a mains power failure, telephones that use cordless handsets will not work.

You will then be unable to make or receive calls in the event of an emergency.

This is why we recommend that you also keep a conventional telephone – one that doesn't require a power supply – as a backup.

! Do not use your telephone to notify a gas leak when standing in the vicinity of the leak.

It is recommended that you avoid using this device during electrical storms. Do not attempt to open the batteries, as they contain chemical substances. In the event of leakage, avoid contact with the skin, eyes, nose and mouth. In the event of contact, rinse the affected part for about twenty minutes with running water and seek urgent medical attention. Clean the product with absorbent paper or a dry cloth and contact your reseller for replacement batteries.

12 ENVIRONMENT

The equipment that you bought has required the extraction and use of natural resources for its production. It may contain hazardous substances for the health and the environment.

In order to avoid the dissemination of those substances in our environment and to diminish the pressure on the natural resources, we encourage you to use the appropriate take-back systems. Those systems will reuse or recycle most of the materials of your end life equipment in a sound way.

The crossed-bin symbol invites you to use those systems.

If you need more information on the collection, reuse and recycling systems, please contact your local or regional waste administration.

You can also contact us for more information on the environmental performances of our products.
